THE NEW YORK CHILD Learning Institute (NYCLI) and local New York television station WB11 recently honoured popular news anchor Gentleman Jim Watkins at a dinner dance at Doubles, the private club in the Sherry-Netherland Hotel, for his years of community service and his commitment to children living with autism. Local media and society came out in grand fashion for an evening of champagne cocktails, dinner, dancing and a special video tribute to the evening's honoree. A man of great stature, intellect and compassion, Jim believes that charity begins at home. He is a family man to the core and is blessed with a lovely wife Lauren Thierry Watkins and son Liam, himself afflicted with autism. Recognising the power of his platform, Jim Watkins devoted himself to not only improving the life of his own autistic son, but by supporting outreach and fundraising efforts on behalf of NYCLI, he put himself in the shoes of every other parent who has to cope with bringing up an autistic child.

For his passion and efforts, a substantial six-figure sum was raised that evening to help the NYCLI provide autistic children with critical educational, social, leisure and job training skills, and to fund medical research in autism.
